

Erik Hromadka
CEO and Board Chairman
Global Water Technologies

Erik Hromadka serves as CEO of Global Water Technologies. Hromadka, 50, has been a shareholder of Global Water Technologies since 2002. He joined the board and became CEO in 2009, was named chairman in 2010 and transitioned the company from its post-bankruptcy efforts. Hromadka has refocused the company with an emphasis on new "smart water" technologies to improve efficiency in distribution systems with sensors and software.

Prior to joining the company, Hromadka worked with a wide range of entrepreneurs, providing business development and strategic communications. A 1988 graduate of Valparaiso University, Hromadka has a background in journalism and covered business, technology and law for numerous publications.
